Another South Carolinian's Opinion of the Disunien Question.

A South Carolina gentleman of high character writes thus to the New York World; In regard to the Union, there is, no doubt, a strong, and in some parts of the planting region perhaps a prevalent disunion spirit region perhaps a prevalent disunion spirit— much less intense and prevalent, however, than persons at a distance might suppose—but it can not at present break out externally—not so much from loyalty to the Union as because the masses of the population take but little interest in any thing whatever but their own affairs. In other words, self-interest is stronger than Southern rights, when these are only threatened. Now week presence as stronger than Southern rights, when these are only threatened. Now, such speeches as Sumner's indorsed by Northern Legislatures and circulated by the Republican Committee—all declarations of a hostile character, arowing a purpose of extermination, &c., must of course arouse a like spirit—and the more matters seem to tend to positive aggression in any quarter the more certain and gression in any quarter, the more certain an ctive resistance. The talk about it, in the mean time, may be very weak, and does its own cause only harm; but it must be evident that if the sectional interests of the country are ever brought into collision, there must be trouble enough, whatever be the result. Now I do honestly believe that the South would do do honestly believe that the South would do the North only good, and that if the anti-slavery spirit could only keep quiet, all will yet subside. Not but that there are faults on our side—yet, be that as it may, South-ern planters, in the main, would ask nothing ern planters, in the main, would ask nothing more than to be let alone (and I believe, but for political aspirants, would not be dragged into the political arena at all), and if such counsels as yours prevail at the North, it would not be many years before the "bonds which bind us together" will never feel the strain of "the tug of parties."

A MONOMANIAC ON THE SUBJECT OF WO. MEN-A MAN ELOPES WITH THREE FEMALES. The North-east (III.) Reporter, of late date,

The town of Tully, Ill., was thrown into considerable excitement last Tuesday, by the announcement that George B. Robinson had eloped with the wife of a man in that place, leaving his wife and six small children to depend on the world for a support. In Quincy the eloping couple were married. From facts elicited, it appears that this is Robinson's third wife living. In Kentucky he was married, a number of years ago, to a woman, and after living with her awhile, woman, and after living with her awhile, seduced her sister, a girl of only twelve or thirteen, finally ran off with her and came to this place, bringing with them his children by his first wife. Here he remained for several years and was generally regarded as a good citizen—the circumstances of his first elopement from Kentucky being unknown. Two years after his elopement from his wife, he married the sister as his second wife. It was suspected that he was too intimate with the woman he had selected second wife. It was suspected that he was too intimate with the woman he had selected for his third wife, but no one thought of his running off with her. But Tuesday Mr. Robinson turned up missing, and so did his wife No. 3. In Quincy he was apprehended and again turned loose. It is reported that he was seen near Tully, a few nights since, and shot at, but whether this is so or not, the Regulators are sign him strong. Regulators are after him strong.

He was missed soon afterward, and the sister hearn to be alarmed and searched for He was missed soon afterward, and the sister began to be alarmed and searched for him. He was soon found in one of the out-houses, suspended by the neck, and immediately cut down. Life was not quite extinct, but all efforts to revive him were unavailing. He had several fits, and finally died on Monday morning. No cause is assigned for this singular suicide. The probability is that the boy was only in fun, but his sport accidentally became a sad

A NOBLEMAN RESCUED FROM A COURTESAN Paris recently on pleasure. He was wealthy and lived freely. He became infatuated with a noterious courtesan named Rigolette, and squandered so much money upon her that after a short career of pleasure he found him-self a beggar and a debtor, in prison. His wife journeyed from Germany, arrived Paris, saw her husband and listened to confession without betraying anger or re-proach. She went to a tribunal, explained the case, a trial took place, and Rigolette, accused of immorality and swindling, and compelled to restore the property; the German was released from prison, and, with a handsome residue, thanks to his wife, he returned to his country and his krout.

An immense room is fitted up, throughout its entire ex-tent, with parallel benches, running from one end of the apartment to the other. In these benches, ranged close together in a perpendicular direction, are the candle molds, which, viewed from above, their open mouths present the appearance of a vast honey-comb, commensurate with the size of the room itself. Along the top of each bench, 104 feet in length, there runs a railway, and, working on this railway, is what may be termed a candle-locomotive—a large car, running on wheels, containing hot candle material. body of her husband:

After a sufficient time has elapsed to allow them to cool, preparations are made to withdraw them from their are made to withdraw them from their molds. This is done in a very ingenious manner. In an apartment close at hand, an iron boiler of great thickness is fitted with highly compressed air, by means of a pump worked by a steam engine; pipes from this powerful motive communicate with every distinct candle-mold, and convey to it a pressure of air equal to forty-five pounds to the square inch, about the surface of the diameter of a candle. These candle-molds and the air-pump constitute an immense air-gun, containing thousands of barrels, each barrel loaded with a candle. The turn-ing of a cock by boys in attendance lets off these guns and ejects the candles with a slight hissing noise.

LABORS OF THE CITY MISSIONS IN ENGLAND. The Manchester City Mission was organized in 1837, employing twenty-nine missionaries, and receiving $8,000. In 1859, eighty-eight missionaries and $31,000. During the twentyfour years of its existence the agents of the Mission have made 4,886,387 house-to-house visits; held 138,532 meetings; distributed 4,621,291 tracts; induced 10,910 to attend pub-4,021,291 tracts; induced 10,910 to attend public worship; connted 9,639 hopeful conversions, and 11,717 hopeful deaths; reclaimed 361 infidels; restored 413 fallen women; reformed 2,523 drunkards, and sent 12,465 children to Sunday-schools.

The London City Mission employs 375 missionaries. During the last year 1,712,836 visits were paid; 2,542,545 tracts and 6,258 Bibles were distributed, and 57,738 books lent; 36,520 meetings and Bible-classes were held, with an attendance of 949,520, 4,868 outdoor services were held, with an attendance of 351,988; 252 backsliders restored; 1,102 drunkards, and 524 fallen females reclaimed; 589 families in which family prayer was commenced; 9,553 children sent to school

GRAND GREMAN FESTIVAL. The inhabitants of Cologue have been occupied with the preparations for a grand festival, which was to take place at the end of August or was to take place at the end of August of the beginning of September. There is to be a general shooting-match, to which are to be invited Swiss, Belgians, Dutch, and English. Marriage of Two Distinguished Artists. The marriage of M. Wieniawski, solo violinist to the Emperof of Russia, with Miss Hampton, niece of the popular composer and pianist, George Osborne, has just taken place at Pierrefitte, near Paris, where Mr. Stevens gave a handsome dejenner, in honor of the occasion, followed by a concert. Madame Catherine Hayes sang Qui la voce. The worthy host sang a morceau which Rossini did him the honor of composing expressly for him. Mr. Osborne and Mr. Oury also lent their aid to the gratification of the company, which comprised a host of celebrities in music, literature and art. M. Rossini was present. A GREAT CONVENT BELL.-From Palermo we learn that Major Orsini, Master-General of the Ordnance in Sicily, having melted an immense amount of bells in his cannonfoundery, has had a surplus of metal, where-with he has cast a grand new Companone, a sort of Big-Ben, to hang in the Convent Church of Sta. Maria degii Angeli, from whose belfry the tocsin first sounded for the Sicilian insurrection, on the 4th of April of this year, subject to a peal being rung annully by the monks on each recurrence of that thrice-blessed anniversary.

A Man's Suicide NEARLY DESTROYS HIS MAN'S SUICIDE ARABLY DESTROYS HIS WIFE.—Marcus Hanman, of Wood County, in this State, supposed to have been of unsound mind, blew his brains out with a rifle last week. The occurrence came near proving fatal to his wife also, as she was so frightened that she went into fits, and still lies in a habries condition. lies in a helpless condition.

SLAVERY EXCITEMENT IN ALABAMA .- Som excitement has existed in Talladega, Ala, on account of some white men and negroes being discovered with arms, about fifteen miles from that place. It is said that the negroes in the neighborhood gave information as to the designs of these flends, whereby their camp and place of rendezvous had been discovered.

the credulous people last week with a report that the pirate, Albert W. Hicks, who was executed at Bedice's Island, on the 17th of July last, had been revived and was now Hving at Poughkeepsle, has recurred to the subject. It insists that its original statement was true, and it argues at length both the possibility of the resurrection and the credibility of the evidence by which the fact is supported. It says, after alleging that Mrs. Hicks has never been able to find the

It will be recoilected that Mrs. Hicks and the priest she had engaged to bury the pi-rate, were left waiting at the barge office on the Battery, for several bours, while the parties who had the body in charge took it parties who had the body in charge took it ashore at another pier, and according to their own statement afterward made public—not finding Mrs. Hicks—conveyed the coffin to Calvary Cemetery, where it was buried. Such facts speakedor themselves.

It is further admitted that respectable and reliable witnesses have seen Hicks alive and walking the streets of New York, since the day of his supposed execution; and a Deputy United States Marshal states that a gentleman who had just called to see him, while man who had just called to see him

he was absent, said that Hicks had been brought down from Poughkeepsle, in order to be made the subject of a medical operation in this city.

The gentleman said that the pirate could open his mouth, but had no power of utter-ance. He believed, from Hicks's appearance, that it would be impossible for him to live much longer. If this is not good evidence, under all the peculiar circumstances, we would like to know what would be considered as such. It is to be remarked that of the four doctors named by us as having been engaged in the resuscitation, only one has denied the fact, and in his case we confess we were wrong.

Taking down our evidence hastily and excitedly from the lips of two informants, we may have mistaken the name of Dr. Carmichael, and written Carnochan in its place. Dut Drs. Crane, O'Reilly and Bull have all acknowledged, by their silence, what is an undoubted medical triumph. And even in Carnochan's case—supposing he ever did deny it, which we doubt—it is to be remembered that he was not under oath, and can not be expected to feel under very strong obligations to reveal any of the secrets of the faculty But if Albert W. There is in this, says the New York Even-There is in this, says the New York Evening Post, either an awkward attempt to hoax
the public or to bring into repute the famous medico-chemical baths, which are said to have the wonderful efficacy of reviving the dead. Yet, utterly preposterous as the whole story will appear to the sane mind, there are many persons who will give to it full and implicit faith.

A CHILD KILLED BY A Dog.—Mr. Young, residing in East Genon, N. Y., lost a very interesting child, three years old, on last Sunday, under the following circumstances:
A week previous, while playing with a large dog, the animal turned upon the child suddenly, biting it on chin and throat. The wounds were considered trifling, but they soon commenced swelling and became painful. The sufferings of the child were terri hie, and continued so until death relieved it, as above stated. The dog at the time and since has given no indications of hydropho-TERRIBLE BOILER EXPLOSION. - A large boiler exploded in Waverly Mill, one of the bleaching and dyeing establishments of D. G. Scott, in Paterson, N. J., on Friday evening. The boiler is situated in a rear frame building and was asset to be seen t er and was used to gener boiling the cloths and other purposes. tunately, no person was injured; but the building with a tall chimney attached to it, is a heap of ruins. The accident is said to have been caused by the water getting too low, owing to the carelessness of the man in A Great Journey in a Small Boat.—Two sons of Capt. B. H. Hart, of Lagrangeville, Duchess County, New York, started a few days since on a journey to the Mississippi River and perhaps to New Orleans, via the Hudson River, Eric Canal, and Western rivers, in a boat built by themselves. She is twelve feet long, and the material employed in the construction, is composed of a light wood frame covered with zinc, the whole only weighing sixty pounds. Her weight will admit of her being carried around all locks and shallows. TRAGICAL RESULT OF A DREAM .- David Thorn, residing at Princeton, New Jersey, fell from the window of his room, a few nights since, upon the ground beneath, and died from his injuries a few days after. His grandson had been with him for some days previously, and left that day. Mr. Thorn said he was in a dream, and imagined that his little grandson was falling out of the window, and in saving him he fell out him-

THE HORROR OF MOB-LAW-AN INNOCENT MAN POSSIBLY HANGED.—In 1855, one May-berry was hung by a mob in Wisconsin, for the murder of a man named Alger. Subsequent developments have given rise to the horrible suspicion that Mayberry was innocent, as he protested to the last. It is now charged that Lant McComb, who seduced and murdered Laura Harvey, some months since, was guilty of the murder of Alger.

Another Cure for Conss.-Take two sellow wax, and six drachms of verdigris nelt them together and spread the compos tion on a piece of soft leather or lines. Cut away as much of the corn as you can with a knife before you apply the plaster, which must be renewed in a fortnight, if the corn is not by that time gone.

TREMENDOUS HAIL STORM.—There was a terrible storm in Sauk County, Wis,, on Wednesday of last week. Hail fell to the depth of two inches, and the stones were of incredible size, breaking, of course, every pane of glass in the region. They fell with such force as to penetrate solid pumpkins and to cut off the corn.

A MISTAREN CRIMINAL.—A fellow in Dublin committed some small offense for which the Judge pronounced the following sentence: "The sentence of the Court is that you shall be flogged from the bank to the quay." The prisoner, interrupting the Judge, exclaimed: "Thank you, my lord, have you done your worst?" Judge—"No; and back again."

PETTICOATS PUT TO A NEW USE,-The Rochester (New York) Express says: A few miles up the river we witnessed, this morning, a boat laden with four per-sons. On the bow stood a young lady, whose ample skirts making a well-filled sail, took the little craft across the river without the dip of an oar. Evalous Accounty to an Actumes.—On Priday evening, while the play of The Romance of a Poor Young Woman was in progress at McVicker's Thoster, Chicago, Miss Ella Wren, when making her exit from the stage, backed late and fell through a trap, the door of which had been carelessly left open. She was considerably hurt, and may not recover for a long time.

EXTRAORDINARY BALLOON ASCENSION, -A French aronaut named Coppia, pupil of Goddard, announces that he will ascend in a Montgolfier balloon from Jones's Woods, in New York, next week, or the week following. The air-ship wille be 51 feet in hight, and 42 feet in diameter, with a cubic capacity of 40,196 feet, and an ascensive power of 403 pounds; the air-ship and its equipments will weigh about 230 pounds. The materials to be used in the construction of the machine will be 140 pounds of Manilla paper, 200 yards of calico for the bands, sides, joints and neck of the balloon. The inflative power is to be derived from rarified air, which is produced by burning straw under the mouth of the balloon.

A Man Suffocated by Carronic Acid.

A few days ago, Thomas R. Rodman, a colored man, attempted to clean a well at Lansingburg, N. Y. The cover and pump were removed, when a scum was noticed on top of the water. Rodman volunteered to descend the well with a pail and remove this deposit. He commenced lowering himself down with a rope, but had not gone far when his head was noticed to drop back, and he was wedged in the well quite insensible. He was raised as soon as possible, but life was entirely extinct. The carbonic acid in the well had suffocated him.

THE COST AND LABOR OF THE VICTORIA BRIDGE.—The expense of erecting Victoria. Bridge, at Montreal, is stated at $7,000,000. The force engaged in its erection constituted a small army. It consisted of six steamboats and seventy-two barges, besides several small craft. These measured about 12,000 tuns. The boats were manned by 500 men; in the two stone-quarries were 540 men; and on the various works as artisans and laborers, there were 2,000; in all 3,040 men.
